

James A. Saidi, M.D., F.A.C.S.

Dr. James Saidi grew up in San Antonio, Texas where he attended the preeminent Keystone School. He then studied at Cornell University, and graduated in 1990 with a degree in biochemistry. He graduated from the prestigious University of Texas – Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, Texas, and was awarded a Southwestern Research Fellowship. He returned to New York to complete 2 years of general surgery residency training followed by four years of urology training at the world renowned Columbia University Medical Center / New York Presbyterian Hospital.

At Columbia, Dr. Saidi received extensive training in cancer surgery and minimally invasive techniques. He authored or co-authored numerous research publications in the urologic literature in the topics of prostate cancer surgery outcomes, infertility, and urinary incontinence. He was also named a “Pfizer Scholar in Urology.”

In July 2000, Dr. Saidi joined the respected Montclair Urological Group, and has developed an active practice in general urology with special expertise in urologic cancers, robotic assisted surgery and other minimally invasive treatments such as radiofrequency ablation, as well as prosthetic surgery and pelvic floor reconstruction. He established the Prostate and Urologic Cancer Program at Mountainside Hospital in Montclair, NJ where he is also the Associate Director of the Department of Urology.

Dr. Saidi is board certified by the American Board of Urology, and is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons. He is a member of numerous county, state, and national medical societies. In 2006, he was named a “Top Doc” by New Jersey Monthly magazine, as voted by his medical colleagues, one of only 8 urologists in the state to be honored. Dr. Saidi teaches urology to primary care physician residents, and is involved in the robotic surgery training of physicians who come from around the country to the Newark Beth Israel Medical Center robotic surgery training facility.

Dr. Saidi is available for consultation at his office in Glen Ridge, New Jersey. Call 973-746-3322 for an appointment.
